

THE GUARDIANS OF ELARIA

THE COMPENDIUM

Bestiary, Treasures, and Custom Content

A running reference for The Guardians of Elaria. Updated as the chronicle grows.

One volume for everything the road has taught the Guardians: every creature they have faced, freed, or befriended; every treasure and relic they carry; and the house rules, homebrew paths, and mysteries of this table. Three parts, one book, growing with the chronicle.

Part I: The Bestiary

Here is every creature the Guardians have faced, freed, or befriended, gathered with its lore and its complete statistics. When a planar creature falls, it leaves no body: a gleaming mote of its home plane rises, hangs a moment, and fades (and the Essence Sphere tugs toward it). Read on, brave heroes, and know your monsters.

Companions & Friends

Not every creature in this book is an enemy. Some walk the road beside the Guardians.

Ghostbloom is the party's dearest companion, chosen in Session 3 as Floraburst, changed aboard the sinking Dutchman and again in Wraithpine's ghost-light. Her petals are glass-pale now and chime like frost; she floats, speaks in soft telepathy, and glows brighter near planar wounds. Some say she is Elaria's own little voice.

Lickgloom was the party's very first friend, met on their first night by a pond in the Forest of Whispers: round-bodied, endlessly curious, with a tongue longer than it is tall and a telepathic voice of pure feeling ('Food? Friend?'). It chose to stay among Professor Aelwyn's creatures at Ravenstone. Visits are owed.

His golden projection first appeared in Gearhaven: two long ears, a lightning-bolt tail, and a warning carried through Ursa's Mark. He has no statistics yet; he is more a key than a creature, and his full return is still to come.*

Session 1: The Forest of Whispers

The first creatures the Guardians ever faced, all touched by the thinning boundary between the planes. Each left behind a fading mote, the party's very first clue.

Lash. Melee Weapon Attack: +7 to hit, reach 10 ft. Hit: 1d10 + 4 slashing plus 1d8 lightning.

Overcharge (Recharge 6). A 20-ft.-radius burst; DC 15 Constitution save, 4d8 lightning (half on a success). On a fail the target also can't take reactions until end of its next turn.

Worker-machines with corrupted vine knotted through their gears: slow, sad, and unstoppable.

Iron Drudge

Large construct (planar-corrupted), unaligned

Armor Class 17

Hit Points 68 (8d10 + 24)

Speed 25 ft.

STR 19 (+4) DEX 8 (-1) CON 17 (+3) INT 3 (-4) WIS 8 (-1) CHA 1 (-5)

Damage Vulnerabilities fire (corrupted wood and vine in its joints; telegraph the smoke!)

Condition Immunities charmed, frightened, exhaustion, poisoned

Senses darkvision 60 ft.

Challenge 3

Slow but Unstoppable. Can't be knocked prone; ignores difficult terrain. It is slow enough to outrun, but it keeps coming.

Corruption Leak. At 0 HP the blue light gutters out and it slumps, harmless. No death-burst: these were innocent worker-machines, freed rather than destroyed.

Actions

Multiattack. Two Cargo-Arm Slams.

Cargo-Arm Slam. Melee Weapon Attack: +6 to hit, reach 10 ft. Hit: 2d8 + 4 bludgeoning.

Sweep (Recharge 5-6). A wide swing; each creature within 10 ft. makes a DC 14 Dexterity save, taking 2d6 + 4 bludgeoning (half on a success) and shoved 10 ft. on a fail.

Fist-sized knots of corrupted vine that keep coming as long as the engine feeds them.

Corrupted Sproutling

Small plant (planar-corrupted), unaligned

Armor Class 12

Weak but Many. Dies to almost any solid hit; an area effect clears several at once (reward AoE).

Group Turn & Spawn. All Sproutlings act together on one shared initiative. While the engine runs corrupt, a new one crawls from a crack each time one dies.

Actions

Thorn-Lash. Melee Weapon Attack: +4 to hit, reach 5 ft. Hit: 1d6 + 2 piercing.

Latch. Instead of attacking, it grabs a hero (no damage); the next attack against that hero has advantage.

And then the boss: not a monster, but the city's beloved gentle giant, possessed and grieving inside its own iron. The Guardians broke its legs to bring the core into reach, and the last blow drained the corruption away rather than killing it. A gentle death, never an execution.

The Grand Custodian (possessed)

*Gargantuan construct (planar-possessed),

Armor Class 17 (Body); Legs (x2) AC 15

Hit Points 220 (Body); Legs 90 each

Condition Immunities charmed, frightened, exhaustion, poisoned, paralyzed, petrified

The Core Is High. Standing, the core is 40-50 ft. up: only 60-ft.+ ranged attacks and flyers reach it. The legs are ground-level and anyone can strike them.

Topple. Drop both legs (90 HP each) and it crashes to its knees (Phase 2), stops rampaging, and the core drops to 15-20 ft. within everyone's reach. It may slowly repair a leg (to 25 HP) to rise; re-topple it.

Actions

Crushing Stomp. Melee: +8 to hit, reach 15 ft. Hit: 2d10 + 5 bludgeoning, and a DC 15 Dexterity save or knocked prone. (Phases 1 and 2.)

Clockwork Barrage (Recharge 4-6). (Phase 2) Three projectiles, +8 each. Hit: 2d8 + 3 bludgeoning.

Chain Lightning Burst (Recharge 5-6). (Phase 2) +8 to hit, 4d8 lightning, arcing to two more within 15 ft. for 2d8 (DC 15 Dexterity save for half). Meant to be ANSWERED, not to drop a hero.

Core Flare. (Phase 2, body below half HP) Each creature within 20 ft. makes a DC 15 Constitution save or takes 2d6 force and is blinded until end of its next turn.

Part II: Treasures & Relics

Every treasure of the Guardians' road, from a mother's parting gift to the relics of a sleeping goddess. Items marked with the seven-point star are Elaria's own.

The Great Mysteries

The Essence Sphere

Brass and crystal, warm as a heartbeat, made by the deep-gnome masters of Glimmerspire BEFORE the cracks ever opened (how they knew is a question nobody has answered). It holds Pikachu's sleeping spark, and it is a GATHERER: it pulls loose planar motes to itself and survives holding them, which no other vessel can. It is the missing anchor of Vane's Rift Portal, and it never leaves the party's keeping. Gained Planar Attunement at the Whispering Glade (advantage on Arcana concerning planar magic).

The Essence Sphere, a gatherer of loose motes.

The Three Enchanted Potatoes

The three enchanted potatoes: Healing, Transformation, Insight.

Ash Catchum's legacy to his son: three unassuming potatoes that are anything but. The goddess named them remnants of a shattered covenant, safeguards bound from her own essence in the old lore (Healing, Transformation, Insight). They pulse when the world thins. Their hour has not yet come.

Stabby's Idol

Stabby's Idol, cold to the touch near a rift.

A small carved figure Stabby found tucked in his bag after Wraithpine, though nobody saw who put it there. It goes ice cold near rifts, and corruption recoils from it. It has dreams in it. That is all anyone knows, yet.

Relics of Elaria (the Wraithpine Chest)

One half-buried chest, bound in vines of silver and root, opened by Ghostbloom's song beneath the Old Theater. Inside, three gifts, each bearing the seven-point star.

The Wraithpine chest, bound in silver vines.

Staff of Waking Constellations (Ursa)

Staff of Waking Constellations

+1 quarterstaff, druidic focus. 5 charges, regain 1d4 + 1 at dawn: guiding bolt (1), faerie fire (1), moonbeam (2).

Starseed. Once per turn, +1d4 radiant when Ursa deals radiant damage with a druid spell (house rule: druid spells only).

Starlight. Bonus action: 10 ft. dim light; advantage on night navigation.

The counter-weapon: after every great victory, one new star brightens on its haft. The enemy puts stars out; the Staff lights them.

The Staff of Waking Constellations.

Sash of the Swift Current, Rewoven (Stabby)

Sash of the Swift Current (Rewoven)

Scarlet stage-silk rewoven with theater rigging thread. +1 AC (stacks with Unarmored Defense).

Fleetstep. +10 ft. walking speed. Air Dance. 1/day bonus action: fly speed equal to walking, 1 minute.

Feather Fall. 1/day, no components. Its star sigil is cupped by a pair of wings.

The Sash of the Swift Current, rewoven.

Glimmerspire Pocket Dynamo, Mk II (Lilly)

Glimmerspire Pocket Dynamo (Mk II)

A thumb-sized brass core stamped PROP ROOM in stage-engraver script (a mystery unexplained).

Pocket Arsenal. Deploy or recall the Eldritch Cannon as a free action. Endurance Overhaul. Cannon lasts 24 hours.

Power Sync. Cannon deals +2 damage. Reformat. 1/long rest, action: change the cannon's model.

Near Ghostbloom, the core glows soft ghost-green, like a stage cue waiting for its moment.

Lilly with the Pocket Dynamo and its brass frame.

Gifts of Faelan (Havenmoor, Session 4)

Frostbite Shard Dagger (Lilly)

Frostbite Shard Dagger

Rare, attunement by an Artificer. Crystalline ice that never melts. 1d4 piercing + 1d4 cold, +1 to attack.

Spell focus and Arcane Firearm. +1d8 frost to one spell damage roll cast through it; +2 frost on spell damage.

The Frostbite Shard Dagger, ice that never melts.

Amulet of Guiding Light (Ursa)

Amulet of Guiding Light

Rare, attunement by a Circle of Stars druid.

Guiding Light. Sheds light; allies gain +1 to attacks and saves while Ursa is in Starry Form.

Starry Glow. Reaction, 1/long rest: 2d8 radiant, DC 15 Con or blinded. Celestial Resilience. Reroll natural 1s, 2/long rest.

The Amulet of Guiding Light.

Candyfang Katana (Stabby)

Candyfang Katana

Rare, attunement by a Monk. A katana of impossible candy-cane steel. 1d8/1d10 slashing, +1 attack and damage.

Sugar Rush. Bonus action lick, 1/long rest: 2d8 + Con temporary HP. Frostbite Infusion. +2 frost on hit.

Destined to become a Bloodfang heirloom when the Nichirin blade comes.

The Candyfang Katana, candy-cane steel.

Boons, Baubles & Blessings

Elaria's boons (the Whispering Glade, Session 2): Ursa, Planar Awareness (sense planar disturbances, 24 hours); Lilly, the Sphere's Planar Attunement; Stabby, Glimpse of Possibility (one reroll, because the goddess smiled at the goblin).

The eight Winter Bells (Session 4). C, D, E, F, G, A, B, High C: relics of Elaria's light hidden across Havenmoor. Rung in harmony they unmade the Krampusshade. Faelan's Frosted

Cookies: 2d8 healing, a short rest's comfort, and one spell slot, in cookie form.

Curios of the road. The Shadow-Touched Rune Fragment (advantage vs fear, 1 hour); the Dark Fragment of Stormwatch Cliffs (crystallized chaos, evidence of sabotage); Terranox's stone fragments and the elemental mud samples of the Grove of Elemental Waters; beeswax earplugs that beat a monster's song; a bell-handled blue lantern from Pumpkin Row; Alwen's flasks of lucky seawater.

A frost-bound carol tablet, the Winter Bells' song set in stone.

Part III: Custom Content

Homebrew and rulings of this table: the paths the heroes may walk after the year apart, and the standing rules of the campaign. 2024 rules throughout; house rules override the books.

House Rules & Standing Rulings

1. Ursa's Starseed +1d4 applies only to actual druid spells, never the Starry Form Archer's luminous arrow.
2. Patient Defense grants a free Disengage (add Dodge by spending 1 Focus).
3. Shillelagh replaces Primal Savagery on Ursa's sheet (2024 rules).
4. Goodberry: eating a berry is a Bonus Action (2024).
5. Ursa's summoned Air spirit has 20 HP.
6. Deep gnome uses the current 2024-era printing (Svirfneblin Camouflage, Disguise Self and Nondetection 1/long rest each).
7. Lilly's cannon picks its mode on EVERY activation (Forge of the Artificer rule).
8. Potent Spellcasting rides the kindled staff once per turn (Ursa, from level 7).

The Three Doors

At the close of the Gearhaven chapter the Guardians parted for a year: a year of workshops and roads and night skies, each hero following their own heart home. Before each of them stand three doors, three ways that year apart might be spent, and behind every door waits a different gift.

The chapters that follow set down what waits behind all nine: Stabby's three breathing styles, Ursa's three paths of the stars, and Lilly's three artifacts. Each Guardian will choose exactly one door, and none of the three has chosen yet. When they do, the doors not taken will remain in these pages, roads not walked, ready for other heroes in other tellings.

Warrior of Breathing (Stabby's Path)

A homebrew monk subclass taken at level 7 in place of Kensei. A Warrior of Breathing kindles an inner style, a visible breath that wreathes the blade. Three doors, three breathing styles; every road grants the Nichirin Katana, and every First Form replaces Flurry of Blows. The full text of all three follows.

Beast Breathing: the Bloodfang Form

"You think too much, little storm. The beast does not think. The beast moves, and the beast is already behind you." (the lesson Stabby finally understood)

Some warriors learn to still the storm inside them. The Warrior of Beast Breathing learns to ride it. Where other monks seek calm, this form reaches into the wild, animal heart of the fighter: the part that does not hesitate, does not flinch, and does not stop. Practitioners breathe in time with a racing heartbeat rather than a slow one, and when they ignite their breath, their blade glows blood-red and their body moves with the loping, unstoppable grace of a hunting beast.

It is a form born of survival rather than discipline, favored by those who grew up where the strong eat and the slow are eaten. To master it is not to tame the beast, but to become it on command, and to remember how to set it down again afterward.

Features by monk level: 3rd, Beast Breathing; 6th, First Form: Devour; 11th, Advanced Beast Breathing; 17th, Third Form: Apex Predator.

Stabby, Bloodfang ignited.

Level 3: Beast Breathing

Monk Weapons. A katana (and any sword you take up as your signature blade) counts as a Monk weapon for you. You can use your Martial Arts die with it, make your Bonus Action Unarmed Strikes alongside it, and use this subclass's features through it.

Beast Sense. Your senses are sharp as a hunting animal's, even out of combat. You have Advantage on Wisdom (Survival) checks made to track creatures, on Wisdom (Perception) checks that rely on smell or hearing, and on Charisma (Intimidation) checks.

Igniting the Breath. When you roll Initiative, you can expend 1 Focus Point to ignite your breath for the rest of the combat. It lasts until the combat ends, you have the Incapacitated condition, or you end it (no action required). While your breath is ignited, your weapon glows blood-red and deals an extra 2 Force damage on every hit.

Beast's Vigor. While your breath is ignited, your Speed increases by 10 feet and you have Advantage on Dexterity saving throws: the wild reflexes of a cornered animal.

Level 6: First Form: Devour

First Form: Devour. As a Bonus Action, you can expend 1 Focus Point to move up to 15 feet without provoking Opportunity Attacks and make one attack with your Monk weapon. On a hit, the attack deals 3d8 plus your Dexterity modifier Force damage. If this attack reduces the target to 0 Hit Points, you regain the expended Focus Point. This feature replaces Flurry of Blows for you.

Level 11: Advanced Beast Breathing

Advanced Breathing. Your ignited breath grows fiercer. While it is active you gain all its original benefits, and you also have Resistance to Bludgeoning, Piercing, and Slashing damage. In addition, your weapon's bonus damage increases from 2 to 3.

Sharpened Fang. The damage of your First Form: Devour increases to 5d10 plus your Dexterity modifier.

Level 17: Third Form: Apex Predator

Third Form: Apex Predator. As a Bonus Action, you can expend 3 Focus Points to become a blur of fang and steel. Move up to your Speed without provoking Opportunity Attacks and make one attack with your Monk weapon against each of up to three different creatures you move within reach of. Each attack deals 5d10 plus your Dexterity modifier Force damage on a hit, and each creature hit must succeed on a Strength saving throw or have the Prone condition. For each creature reduced to 0 Hit Points, you regain 1 expended Focus Point.

At Level 7, Stabby has: Beast Breathing (the Level 3 stance) + First Form: Devour (Level 6, 3d8 + Dex). The Level 11 and 17 features unlock as he grows.

Water Breathing: the Monastery Form

“Be water. Water does not strike; it flows, and the rock is cut all the same. Now breathe, and begin again.” (Master Kaelon Windstep)

The Warrior of Water Breathing is the form of the patient master, the discipline that other monks spend their whole lives chasing. Its practitioners learn to move like a river: never rigid, never still, every strike flowing into the next, every blow turned aside by giving way rather than resisting. When they ignite their breath, their blade runs pale blue and cold, and their guard becomes as fluid and unbroken as a current that cannot be grasped.

It is the most traditional of the breathing forms, and the hardest to truly master, for it asks the warrior to be calm in the middle of chaos. Those who walk this path are as often menders as fighters, for the same stillness that turns a blade can also close a wound, and the same patience that wins a duel can sit a long vigil at a friend's side.

Features by monk level: 3rd, Water Breathing; 6th, First Form: Flowing Strike; 11th, Advanced Water Breathing and Healing Spring; 17th, Third Form: Tidal Crash.

Stabby, the Flowing Guard.

Level 3: Water Breathing

Monk Weapons. A katana (and any sword you take up as your signature blade) counts as a Monk weapon for you. You can use your Martial Arts die with it, make your Bonus Action Unarmed Strikes alongside it, and use this subclass's features through it.

Igniting the Breath. When you roll Initiative, you can expend 1 Focus Point to ignite your breath for the rest of the combat. It lasts until the combat ends, you have the Incapacitated condition, or you end it (no action required). While your breath is ignited, your weapon glows pale blue and deals an extra 2 Cold damage on every hit.

Flowing Guard. While your breath is ignited, you gain a +2 bonus to Armor Class against the first attack roll made against you before the start of each of your turns: an ever-moving guard that turns the first blow aside.

Level 6: First Form: Flowing Strike

First Form: Flowing Strike. As a Bonus Action, you can expend 1 Focus Point to shift up to 15 feet without provoking Opportunity Attacks and make one attack with your Monk weapon. On a hit, the attack deals 3d8 plus your Dexterity modifier Cold damage, and the target must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw or have the Prone condition as the current sweeps its feet. This feature replaces Flurry of Blows for you.

Level 11: Advanced Water Breathing

Advanced Breathing. Your ignited breath deepens. While it is active you gain all its original benefits, and also: whenever you hit a creature with your Monk weapon, that creature's Speed is reduced by 10 feet until the start of your next turn as the cold seeps into its limbs.

Sharpened Flow. The damage of your First Form: Flowing Strike increases to 5d10 plus your Dexterity modifier.

Healing Spring. Once per Long Rest, you can take a Bonus Action to touch a creature (or yourself) and channel the still water's mending. The target regains 4d8 plus your Wisdom modifier Hit Points.

Level 17: Third Form: Tidal Crash

Third Form: Tidal Crash. As a Bonus Action, you can expend 3 Focus Points to shift up to 20 feet and make one attack with your Monk weapon against each of up to three different creatures within your reach as you flow among them. Each attack deals 5d10 plus your Dexterity modifier Cold damage on a hit, and each creature hit must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw or have the Prone condition and its Speed becomes 0 until the end of its next turn, frozen in place by the flood.

At Level 7, Stabby has: Water Breathing (the Level 3 stance) + First Form: Flowing Strike (Level 6, 3d8 + Dex). The Level 11 and 17 features unlock as he grows.

Shadow Breathing: the Idol Form

“Do not fear the dark. Breathe it in. Let it fill you, and then there is nothing left in the dark to fear you.” (a whisper from the idol)

The Warrior of Shadow Breathing is the strangest and most secretive of the forms, a discipline touched by something older than any monastery. Its practitioners breathe in the gloom itself, drawing the dark into their lungs until it answers to them. When they ignite their breath, their blade runs violet-black, the shadows fold around them like a cloak, and they see clearly in darkness that blinds everyone else.

Few teach this form openly, for it walks close to powers most monks are warned away from. Those who carry it often carry a question they cannot yet answer: why the dark heeds them, where the breath truly comes from, and what waits at the end of the path they have started down. Mastered well, it makes a warrior into something the night itself seems to bend around.

Features by monk level: 3rd, Shadow Breathing; 6th, First Form: Umbral Slash; 11th, Advanced Shadow Breathing; 17th, Third Form: Eclipse.

Stabby, wreathed in the Idol's gloom.

Level 3: Shadow Breathing

Monk Weapons. A katana (and any sword you take up as your signature blade) counts as a Monk weapon for you. You can use your Martial Arts die with it, make your Bonus Action Unarmed Strikes alongside it, and use this subclass's features through it.

Eyes of the Idol. The idol's gift never fully leaves you. You have Darkvision with a range of 60 feet (if you already have Darkvision, its range increases by 60 feet), and you have Advantage on Dexterity (Stealth) checks; the gloom favors you.

Igniting the Breath. When you roll Initiative, you can expend 1 Focus Point to ignite your breath for the rest of the combat. It lasts until the combat ends, you have the Incapacitated condition, or you end it (no action required). While your breath is ignited, your weapon glows violet-black and deals an extra 2 Necrotic damage on every hit.

One With the Gloom. While your breath is ignited, the dark wraps around you: you have Half Cover (a +2 bonus to AC) against ranged attacks (anywhere, not just in shadow), and you can see normally in magical Darkness.

Level 6: First Form: Umbral Slash

First Form: Umbral Slash. As a Bonus Action, you can expend 1 Focus Point to teleport up to 15 feet to an unoccupied space you can see next to a creature, engulf that creature in a 10-foot Cube of magical Darkness, and make one attack with your Monk weapon against it, with Advantage. On a hit, the attack deals 3d8 plus your Dexterity modifier Necrotic damage. The Darkness lasts until the end of your next turn. This feature replaces Flurry of Blows for you.

Level 11: Advanced Shadow Breathing

Advanced Breathing. Your ignited breath drinks deeper of the dark. While it is active you gain all its original benefits, and also: once per turn, when you hit a creature with an attack roll you made with Advantage, the attack deals an extra 2d6 Necrotic damage.

Sharpened Gloom. The damage of your First Form: Umbral Slash increases to 5d10 plus your Dexterity modifier.

► The gloom is his alone. Stabby sees through his own Darkness; his allies can't. Creatures wrapped in his gloom are hidden from Ursa's bolts and Lilly's cannon until the dark lifts, so the party learns to pick different targets while the shadow does its work.

Level 17: Third Form: Eclipse

Third Form: Eclipse. As a Bonus Action, you can expend 3 Focus Points to vanish into the gloom and strike from everywhere at once. Create a 20-foot Cube of magical Darkness centered on yourself (you can see through it), then teleport to and make one attack with your Monk weapon against each of up to three different creatures within it, with Advantage. Each attack deals 5d10 plus your Dexterity modifier Necrotic damage on a hit. Each creature hit has the Blinded condition until the end of your next turn, and you remain effectively unseen by everyone but yourself until the Darkness ends.

At Level 7, Stabby has: Shadow Breathing (the Level 3 stance) + First Form: Umbral Slash (Level 6, 3d8 + Dex). The Level 11 and 17 features unlock as he grows.

The Demon-Slayer's Blade: the Nichirin Katana

This sun-forged demon-slayer blade was made from crimson ore that drinks in dawnlight. While sheathed, the steel looks dark and almost ordinary, but when Stabby ignites his breathing, the blade catches that breath and burns with the color of his chosen form.

Nichirin Katana

Weapon (Katana), Rare (Requires Attunement by Stabby)

Weapon Statistics. The Nichirin katana uses the statistics of a Longsword (1d8 Slashing damage) with the Finesse and Versatile (1d10) properties, and it counts as a Monk weapon for Stabby. Because it has Finesse and is a Monk weapon, Stabby uses his Dexterity for its attack and damage rolls.

Magic Weapon. You gain a +2 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon.

Breath-Kindled Steel. When Stabby ignites his breathing, the blade glows with the color and nature of that form: blood-red for Beast Breathing, pale blue for Water Breathing, or violet-black for Shadow Breathing. This glow is magical but sheds only dim light unless Stabby chooses otherwise.

Cleansing Edge. Once on each of your turns when you hit a Fiend, Undead, shadow creature, or creature empowered by planar corruption with this katana, the blade burns away corruption until the start of your next turn. While affected, the creature can't regain Hit Points, can't benefit from magical Darkness or shadowy concealment against Stabby, and any visible corruption around the wound briefly burns, cracks, or peels away in sparks of purified light.

Demon-Slayer's Mark. The katana is especially dangerous to creatures twisted by darkness, undeath, or planar corruption. It leaves wounds that glow faintly like banked embers, revealing that the creature has been marked by cleansing sunlight. The blade wounds the corruption, not the creature beneath. When a corrupted guardian falls to it, what breaks is the darkness.

Lore of the Blade

They say the first Nichirin blades were quenched not in water or oil but in the light of dawn itself, folded by smiths who worked only in the hour before sunrise. The ore came from a single mountain that caught the morning sun before anywhere else in the world, and steel drawn from it never forgot that first warmth. A finished blade looks plain and dark in an idle hand; it is waiting. Only a warrior who can kindle their own breath can wake the colour sleeping in the metal.

For a creature of corruption, that waking light is a death sentence. Where an ordinary sword cuts flesh, a Nichirin blade cuts the rot itself: the shadow that hides a fiend, the dark magic that knits an undead back together, the planar taint that lets a horror shrug off honest steel. Stabby's blade chose its colours from his own breathing forms, and now it burns red, blue, or violet to match whichever beast, river, or shadow he calls upon.

A whispered rumor. Old hunters claim a Nichirin blade can never be truly stolen: carried by the wrong hand, the steel stays cold and dull and will not take an edge. Whether that is true, or simply a story told to keep thieves honest, no one in living memory has dared find out.

Setting Down the Kensei's Way

When Stabby takes up a breathing form at Level 7, the Kensei's tricks retire with his old teacher's lessons. He loses Kensei's Shot (the bow's bonus-action +1d4) and Agile Parry (his +2 AC after blade-and-fist turns), and the Repeating Longbow becomes simply a very good bow, no longer a Monk weapon. In exchange he gains a stance he can ignite every single fight, a First Form that turns his bonus action into a 3d8 + 5 strike with 15 feet of free movement, form gifts that work all day, and a road that grows with him to Level 17. He is trading a parry for a predator's gait, and he gains far more than he gives up. (And Candyfang, outshone by the Nichirin blade, needn't vanish: an heirloom at his belt, or one day, a gift worthy of a Bloodfang.)

Paths of the Stars (Ursa's Path)

For Ursa Catchum, Circle of the Stars Druid: the year apart, Level 5 to 7. Ursa walked one of three roads during the year apart, and came back changed. Each road grants a feat (what he sought) and a keepsake (what found him): he gains the pair matching his road. Special story feats: no ability score increase.

Beast Handler: The Living World (the road into the wild)

"You went out to learn the speech of wild things. You came back, and the wild things follow you home."

Beast Handler (feat)

Mightier Summons. Whenever you cast the Summon Beast spell, you cast it as though using a spell slot of the highest level you can cast, without expending a higher-level slot. (The spell's effects scale to that level, 4th now, and growing as Ursa does, but it still uses only a 2nd-level slot.)

Wild Speech. You and your summoned creatures share simple thoughts freely, no words needed. With ordinary Beasts, you understand their sounds and gestures even without your Mark's magic, and they understand yours.

The Wildheart Token

Carved by his own hand.

A totem of a beast Ursa befriended in the wild year: the player names it, and names the friend. His Bestial Spirit now always takes that companion's shape. Once per day, when the spirit would drop to 0 hit points, it drops to 1 instead: it refuses to leave him.

Starlit Channeler: The Circle of Stars (the road into the sky)

"You returned to the Circle, and the constellations answered: their light now runs down your arm and out through the staff."

Starlit Channeler (feat)

The Warden. You learn the Shillelagh cantrip (Wisdom is your spellcasting ability for it), and your Starry Form gains a fourth constellation: the Warden, a spear-bearing figure of starlight. When you assume your form, you can choose it. As part of the same Bonus Action, you cast Shillelagh through your staff, and the spell lasts as long as the form does (instead of 1 minute). While the Warden shines: the kindled staff's damage becomes Radiant, its strikes deal an extra 1d6 Radiant damage (2d6 at 11th level, 3d6 at 17th), and as a Bonus Action on each of your later turns, you can make one strike with the kindled staff.

► The kindled staff IS the Shillelagh spell: Starseed (+1d4) rides its strikes (unlike the Archer's arrow, a form feature), and its damage counts as cantrip damage (Elemental Fury: Potent Spellcasting applies from 7th, once per turn, like Starseed). Sheet note: the feat grants Shillelagh, so Ursa's known copy frees up for a cantrip swap at his next level.

The Staff Wakes Further

The relic grows, as promised. The Staff of Waking Constellations has always brightened a new star after every victory: on this road, it brightens for him. Capacity rises to 6 charges (regain 1d4+2 at dawn), and its Starlight glow reaches 20 feet: the whole party fits inside his Starry Form's light, and inside the Amulet of Guiding Light's +1 to attacks and saves.

Reader of Omens: The Father's Trail (the road east)

"Your father read the sky the way other folk read a map. On his trail you learned his art: the omens no longer come at random, and you choose your moment."

Reader of Omens (feat)

Both Omens. When you consult your Star Map after a Long Rest, you do not roll for a single omen. Instead, you gain access to both Weal and Woe until your next Long Rest.

Read the Moment. You can wait to use your Cosmic Omen reaction until after the d20 is rolled, but before you know the outcome. You then choose whether to apply Weal (add 1d6 to the roll) or Woe (subtract 1d6).

Shared Tides. Your uses of Cosmic Omen remain a single pool equal to your Wisdom modifier (regaining all uses on a Long Rest). Spend each use on either Weal or Woe.

Prerequisite: the Cosmic Omen feature (gained at druid level 6).

Ash's Sigil-Stone

Recovered on the trail. Attunement.

A river-smooth stone etched with a half-finished sigil of Elaria, in Ash's own hand. It sits warm in the palm when carried east. 1/long rest: cast Aura of Vitality from it without a spell slot, healing between fights (triggers his Chalice splash). One day, when the sigil is finished, it may wake.

► The S13 clue rides here.

Ursa gains the one road he walked, feat and keepsake together. The other two roads remain: the stars are patient, and the wild does not forget him.

Glimmerstone Artifacts (Lilly's Path)

Three masterworks of deep gnome artifice, forged for Lilly Glimmergear in the year apart. Three masterworks, one choice. Each door of Lilly's year apart leads to one of these treasures: stay and build the portal (the Sentinel), go home to Glimmerspire and Poots (Boomstick), or give the year to mote research (the Awakened Sphere). She walks one road and claims one masterwork. The attunement ledger closes on every road: her Frostbite Shard, her Pocket Dynamo, and the new artifact make exactly three, and on the Sentinel's road it is only two, for the Dynamo itself is rebuilt into the guardian.

Boomstick

"It doesn't jam. It doesn't misfire. It simply states its opinion, loudly."

On this road, Boomstick takes the dagger's watch. Boomstick becomes Lilly's spellcasting focus and her designated Arcane Firearm (an artificer designates only one). With her shield in the other hand, her hands are exactly full: pistol, shield, and nothing wasted. The Frostbite Shard retires to her belt as a keepsake, or one day, a gift.

Boomstick, primed and opinionated.

Boomstick

Weapon (Repeating Pistol), Rare (Requires Attunement by an Artificer)

Repeating Pistol, +2. You gain a +2 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic firearm. It deals 1d10 Thunder damage and never needs reloading or ammunition; its clockwork drum conjures its own rounds.

Wand of the War Mage. While holding Boomstick, you gain a +2 bonus to spell attack rolls, and you ignore Half Cover when making a spell attack. This also improves your Eldritch Cannon's attack rolls, since they use your spell attack modifier.

Spell Focus and Arcane Firearm. Boomstick serves as your artificer spellcasting focus and as your Arcane Firearm: you can add 1d8 to one damage roll of an artificer spell you cast through it, dealt as Thunder damage.

Concussion Infusion. When a creature takes damage from a spell you cast through Boomstick, it takes an additional 2 Thunder damage and can't take Reactions until the start of its next turn (the disorienting boom).

Made to Channel. When you cast True Strike through Boomstick, the shot uses your Intelligence, counts as a spell attack (gaining the +2 and ignoring Half Cover), and deals Boomstick's Thunder plus True Strike's Radiant. A reliable scaling shot that leaves your Bonus Action free for your cannon.

Forged by the masters of Glimmerstone.

The Awakened Essence Sphere

"It was never a keepsake. It was a key, and it is finally awake."

The Sphere, drinking the loose light of the world.

The Sphere has spent the whole journey quietly pulling loose motes from the air. Now awakened, it holds a swirling jumble of collected aether that powers it from the start, and as the party clears each elemental rift and installs its pure Mote, the Sphere learns that plane's mighty discharge.

The Awakened Essence Sphere

Wondrous Item, Rare (Requires Attunement). Mote Channeling.

Mote Channeling. You can use the Sphere's powers a total of 2 times per Short Rest (a shared pool). You start with the base Aether Ward and unlock one elemental discharge each time you install a rift's Mote. Where a save is called for, the DC is your spell save DC.

Base Power: Collected Aether. Aether Ward. Action. You and each ally within 15 feet gain 2d8 + your Intelligence modifier Temporary Hit Points as the gathered motes form a protective shell. (Available from the start.)

Rift Tracker. Mark each Mote as it comes home: Ignis, Unda, Aer, Terra, Umbra. Five rifts, five discharges, and a Sphere that remembers every one.

Elemental Discharges

Each unlocks when its rift is cleared and its Mote installed. The menu grows as the campaign goes.

Fire / Ignis, Cinderstorm (LOCKED). Action. A 40-foot-radius firestorm within 120 feet. Each creature in the area makes a Dexterity saving throw, taking 8d6 Fire damage on a failed save, or half as much on a success. The area becomes burning terrain until the start of your next turn: difficult terrain, and any creature that enters it or starts its turn there takes 2d6 Fire damage.

Water / Unda, Drowning Surge (LOCKED). Action. A 30-foot Cone of crushing water. Each creature in the Cone makes a Constitution saving throw, taking 6d8 Cold damage on a failed save, or half as much on a success. On a failure, the creature also has the Prone condition and its Speed is halved until the end of its next turn.

Air / Aer, Cyclone (LOCKED). Action. A 30-foot-radius whirlwind within 120 feet. Each creature in the area makes a Strength saving throw, taking 6d8 Thunder damage on a failed save, or half as much on a success. On a failure, the creature is also flung 20 feet and has the Prone condition.

Earth / Terra, Tectonic Slam (LOCKED). Action. A 20-foot-radius eruption within 120 feet. Each creature in the area makes a Dexterity saving throw, taking 7d8 Force damage on a failed save; creatures that fail also have the Prone condition. The area becomes a Jagged Field until your next turn: difficult terrain that deals 5 Piercing damage for every 5 feet a creature travels through it, and you and your allies in the area have Half Cover from the raised stone.

Shadow / Umbra, Soul Siphon (LOCKED). Action. One creature within 60 feet (or split the dice among up to three). Each target makes a Constitution saving throw, taking 8d6 Necrotic damage on a failed save, or half as much on a success. You regain Hit Points (or grant them to an ally within 30 feet) equal to half the Necrotic damage dealt.

The Sentinel

“An upgraded Eldritch Cannon, rebuilt at the bench into a faithful guardian.”

The Sentinel

Medium Construct (the Pocket Dynamo, rebuilt; Requires Attunement by Lilly)

Hit Points 5 + five times your artificer level (40 at Level 7); it has a number of d8 Hit Dice equal to your artificer level

Speed 30 ft.

Languages understands the languages you know

Duration. None: it stays until it drops to 0 Hit Points or you dismiss it (no action required); deploy or recall it as a Bonus Action.

Bound Construct. Add your Proficiency Bonus to any ability check or saving throw the Sentinel makes.

Rebuilt Dynamo. The Sentinel is Lilly's Eldritch Cannon feature, rebuilt: while attuned, she deploys the Sentinel instead of a cannon (never both). The Dynamo's gifts live on inside it: free deployment, no duration, and a hotter frame: the old cannon threw 2d8 flat, the Dynamo warmed that to 2d8+2, and the Sentinel's blasts now carry her full Intelligence (2d8+5). Mending repairs it 2d6, and if it ever drops to 0 Hit Points, she reboots it with a spell slot of 1st level or higher, just as a cannon is rebuilt.

Actions

Activate. On your turn you can use a Bonus Action to activate the Sentinel. When you do, it takes one of the following actions of your choice.

Force Blast. Ranged Attack Roll: your spell attack modifier, range 120 feet. Hit: 2d8 + your Intelligence modifier Force damage.

Electric Pulse. Lightning arcs from the Sentinel's core. Each creature of your choice within 15 feet of the Sentinel makes a Dexterity saving throw (DC equals your spell save DC), taking 2d8 + your Intelligence modifier Lightning damage on a failure, or half as much on a success. A creature that fails is jolted: it can't take Reactions until the start of your next turn.

Reactions

Guardian Protocol (1/round). Trigger: an ally within 15 feet of the Sentinel takes damage. Response: that ally gains 1d8 + your Intelligence modifier Temporary Hit Points.

Why this is an upgrade. The old cannon made Lilly choose a mode; the Sentinel walks on its own 30 feet, then blasts or pulses on her Bonus Action (her pick every time), and shields her friends as a Reaction in the same round. Her old kit lives on inside it: the Force Ballista became the Force Blast, the Storm mode became the Electric Pulse, and the Protector stands watch as Guardian Protocol. The Flamethrower was traded for lightning, Gearhaven's own element. Forged by the masters of Glimmerstone.

Marks & Mysteries

Ursa's Mark of Handling. A dragonmark that woke when he was six: it prickles near frightened animals, grants Speak with Animals and Animal Friendship, and has become the channel through which sleeping and possessed things speak to him (Pikachu, the Grand Custodian). It has never once stirred for a machine.

The seven-point star. Elaria's sigil, wrapped in a leafed vine (or cupped in wings, on the Sash), found on every gift along the Guardians' path. When you see it, she saw you coming.

The seven-point star of Elaria, held close.

Elaria, the sleeping goddess who lit the way.
